

The rising STAR of Texas

Assistant Professor Faculty Position

The Department of Respiratory Care at Texas State University invites applications for a faculty position at the assistant professor level with responsibilities in didactic and clinical instruction. This is a full-time tenure-track, nine-month contract position with benefits, and includes full-time summer teaching contract. Teaching, scholarly and service are required for this tenure-track position. Competitive research support is also offered. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Required qualifications: Minimum of three years experience in respiratory care, eligible for RCP licensure in Texas, Registered Respiratory Therapist (RRT) credential, master's degree in a related field. Documentation of recent clinical competency is required. For more position details, full job description, and application submission, please refer to Job Posting <https://jobs.hr.txstate.edu/postings/18849>. Only applications submitted through the Texas State University website will be accepted and considered. Application review will begin 01/31/2017 with the position remaining open until filled. Texas State University is an EEO and tobacco free institution.